How many times do we really wonder about the unemployment rate in the country when we are trying to hire employees? In a billion plus population the gap on talent availability is only to do with the ability to impart knowledge. Knowledge – the best gift to give – it never ages, is the only asset that cannot be stolen and the only asset that increases only when shared. I strongly believe in what Jim Rohn said... If someone is going down the wrong road, he doesn't need motivation to speed him up. What he needs is education to turn him around. I have signed up to be part of this initiative – have you?

CMITS- CSR

Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) is an organization initiative that allows us to participate in various projects that are run for betterment of society at large. With a hectic corporate life, not of times, our ability to participate in such initiatives is hindered. CSR has successfully woven such initiatives in organization framework and provides us an opportunity to contribute. There are initiatives in categories such as inclusivity (helping under-privileged children, blood donation), environment (tree plantation) to name a few. I would encourage all of you to participate actively and contribute towards a better society and country.

"QUOTE UN QUOTE"

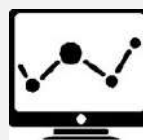

Chirag Volunteer

"The giver receives even more than it gives, giving time can be more important than giving things". Participating in the CSR activities will make you believe in this cliché. Enlightenment, Satisfaction, Happiness and tons of memories are my take away from every single CSR then be it Raahgiri, Vidya and child or Udayan care. I think that's just the nature of giving: when other people are uplifted and happy, you are as well, and then that just forms a big cycle of happiness! There is no way to describe in words how incredible it is to spend time in places where happiness is found in the simplicities of life, where the value of education is put on a pedestal. The best way to truly feel the magic is to go and become a part of the magic yourself, to anyone who has the opportunity to do so, I highly recommend you take it. CSR helps in creating values. Value for the individual that got the experience, value for the company that gained a motivated, engaged and highly competent worker, value for the society that benefited from your actions. CSR had given and will continue to provide us opportunities so that we can reach out our helping hand to that part of community that is not as privileged as we are. So let's begin a new era by participating in CSR, and be a part of the huge impact.
